The Wisconsin Storm-Further Particulars - Sticks, Stones

Madison, Wis., May 24.-Last night's

A number of prairie area started during the evening.

A report from Oregon, Wis., says: Many houses were torn down near Paoli and three or four persons killed. Great destruction of property and loss of life undoubtedly resulted from the storm. News comes in slowly as telegraphic communication with that part of the State is cut off.

DEASTER AND LOS OF LIFE.

The tornado which passed over this place last night proves to have been more wide spread and destructive than was thought last night. The storm came from the direction of the southwest, passing through a section of the State where no telegraphic communications are established. Enough has been appalling. In the vicinity of Primrose, 25 miles southwest of this city, the storm seems to have done a wide spread damage. From 25 to 30 barns and farm houses were blown down, some utterly destroyed, and the debris carried off before the wind, some falling 10 or 15 miles away. One shutter of a house fell in Lake Wandata near this city. Some 12 or 18 persons are known to have been killed and large numbers seriously injured. Teams and wasons were taken from the roads and

PITTEBURGH, May 24.—The 8th day's session of the Presbyterian General As-sembly commenced at 9 o'clock this session of the Freedyterian General seembly commenced at 9 o'clock this morning.

Rev. Dr. Kempshall read the report of the Board of Education, which gives the following statistics: Candidates accepted during the year 432, those in Theological Seminaries 247, Collegiate course 165, Academic 24, fitting for foreign languages, German 32, Portugese, French and Welch, 7; for work among freedmen 59. The churches contributing the past year outnumber, those of 1877 by 220, and notwithstanding the stringency of the times the receipts only fell off $2,974. There is a disposition to be more strict over the students and exact a higher grade of qualification for ministers. The Secretary read an address in support of the work of the Board. After discussion the report was adopted.

The Moderator announced the special committee to prepare a minute expressing the judgment of the Assembly in the case of the appeal of Isaac M. See, from the decision of the Synod of New Jersey: Rev. T. Ralston Smith D. D., Rev. Robert Patterson, D. D., Rev. Wm. M. Baker; Elders John Ogden, S. C. Perkins. The Assembly then proceeded to the consideration of the appeal of Rev John Miller from the decision of the Presbytery of New Brunswick. After reading of the record the Assembly proceeded to the trial.
